Emily Nichols

Project Coordinator

Emily Nichols is a project coordinator for GAIN. She provides strategic coordination for energy communities which are transitioning to more clean energy options and also provides support with communications to promote the GAIN program.

Emily has served in marketing and communications roles for nearly 20 years, including those in journalism, non-profit advocacy, corporations and government. She holds a B.A. in photography and writing from Montana State University.

Emily, along with her family, lives at the base of the Teton mountains in Teton Valley, Idaho and enjoys outdoor recreation, art and live music.
